WILD LAND FIRES.

FISH AND GAME LAW AFFECTS ONLY HUNTERS AND FISHERS.

Parties Picnicking and Not Fishing or Hunting Are Liable Under Forestry Laws if They Do Damage, But Need Not Hire Guides.

(Special to Maine Woods and Maine Sportsman.)

Augusta, Me., Oct. 9, 1909.

Many strange ideas get abroad in regard to the fish and game laws of Maine as well as of other states that are frequented by summer visitors and sportsmen. For instance, it is unlawful for any person to kindle a fire on the wild lands of the state while engaged in fishing or hunting unless accompanied by a registered guide, and no guide is allowed to take the responsibility of caring for more than five sportsmen on a single trip.

This provision has caused a good deal of confusion and uneasiness among summer visitors, many of whom live in our hotels during the summer and find it convenient to go picnicking on wild lands of the state, when they do not want to fish or hunt. But some of them are afraid to build fire enough on the wild lands to make coffee unless they hire a registered guide to go along.

One man at the Rangeley Lakes adopted the novel plan of carrying a small oil lamp with him whenever he and his wife went into the woods to eat dinner, as they often did. They didn't care about fishing, but they dared not build a fire without a guide.

The law says that while engaged in fishing or hunting "and it is very plain upon the point. If not engaged in fishing or hunting, there is no fish and game law to prevent those not engaged in fishing and hunting from building all the fires they need. They have no right to hazard anybody's property by building and leaving fires. There is plenty of law to prevent that of course. Those who do damage by fires are subject to prosecution under the forestry laws.

Following are among the questions lately received by the fish and game commission and answered by them on behalf of the state:

Limerick.

We have been having quite a discussion in regard to the law protecting gray squirrels in York county. Will you please tell me just what change if any was made in the laws. Thanking you for an early reply, I am,
L. M. S.

Ans.—No change in the law. Grey and black squirrels are protected at all times—that is, it is unlawful to kill them at any time.

Kennebunk.

Kindly let me know how the law reads on deer in York county, and if the grey squirrel law was changed last winter.
G. W. F.

Ans.—We have had many inquiries like the above. Open season on deer in York county, November only, one may be taken, regardless of sex, by one person. See answer above about squirrels.

North Lovell.

They are talking around here that we have no right to shoot deer in Oxford county this fall, and we saw a piece in the paper in regard to it, so I write you as I wish to know for certain.

Ans.—Open season on deer in Oxford county from midnight Sept. 30, to midnight Dec. 15. One person may kill two.

If a trap be set in the water would it be same as a trap set on dry land as regards the law about setting a trap on a man's land, and who will a trapper have to reckon with in setting traps without a written permission, with the land owner or with a warden, and must a man have a permit to set traps along a highway or a railroad?
H. E. S.

Ans.—The owner of land over which flows a stream of water owns the land under the water. Permission would have to be obtained of the railroad to set traps on their land also of the owner of the land adjoining a highway ordinarily.

Princeton, Me.

I am asking you to explain the unnaturalized foreign-born resident law. If a foreign-born person has lived here two years and pays taxes on real or personal property can he hunt without a license, or must he have lived here two years before May 1907? There is an argument among the lawyers over this passage and I would like to have a right understanding of the same.
M. P. K.

Ans.—The law seems to be plain and free from ambiguity. It is as follows:

E. T. HOAR, Rangeley, Maine.

Sec. 1. It shall be unlawful for any unnaturalized foreign-born person who has not resided within the limits of this state for two years continuously prior to the passage of this act and who is not a taxpayer upon real or personal property within this state, to hunt in any manner, at any time, or pursue, catch, kill or have in possession any wild animals or birds within the limits of this state unless he is licensed so to do as hereinafter provided.

No unnaturalized foreign-born resident can legally hunt without a license who had not lived in this state two years prior to the passage of this law, and in addition that pays taxes on real or personal property.

Belfast, Maine, Sept. 13, 1909.

As I understand the game laws, a man may have in his possession at any one time 15 woodcock or partridges. On page 83, section 22, it states that a person having procured a license shall entitle the purchaser to take, to his home, in addition as now provided, properly tagged and open to view, 10 partridges, 10 ducks and ten woodcock, that he has himself lawfully killed. Am I to understand that this is to be continued as it has been in the past, that a non-resident may take with him 25 birds?
H. C.

Ans.—You are somewhat mistaken in your interpretation of the law.

The phrase to which you refer, "in addition as now provided by law," means simply this: Prior to the enactment of this hunter's license law

Take-down Repeating Shotgun

Marlin repeating shotguns are guns of perfect proportions, made in 12 and 16 gauges, with simpler mechanism than any other repeater.

They have the Marlin solid top always between your head and the cartridge, the side ejector, and the closed-in breechbolt that keeps out rain, snow and sleet, dirt, leaves, twigs, and all other foreign matter. These features add greatly to the efficiency of a gun and to the comfort and convenience of the shooter.

The Model 16, 16-gauge Marlin is the only light weight repeating shotgun made. It weighs but 6 1/2 pounds, handles fast and shoots close and hard. It is unequalled for quail shooting, for squirrels, rabbits and all small game.

BRAYMAN'S STORE BURNED.

CUSTER MFG. CO. MEETS BIG LOSS IN MICHIGAN.

Details of Fire That Took Ten Thousand Dollar Stock From Men Who Are Building a Big Clothespin Mill in Phillips.

The Messrs. Brayman, who are moving their clothespin factory from Custer, Michigan, to Phillips, on October 5 met with a loss by fire. The following is from the Ludington (Mich.) Chronicle:

Yesterday morning the general store, contents, office and records of the Custer Mfg. Co., in which M. Brayman and sons, E. A. Brayman and L. M. Brayman, and George N. Stray of this city are interested, was totally destroyed by fire, causing damages to the amount of $10,000, partially covered by an insurance of $7000. The fire was discovered soon after midnight by W. E. Reader and in a very short time the chemicals and recently purchased fire engine, with the addition of a bucket brigade, were on the scene. Only the most heroic work on the part of the fire fighters saved the W. E. Reader & Co. hardware store and Hotel McDonnell across the street from being wiped out.

The stock was valued at $7000, the building at $2000 and the fixtures at $1000. An insurance of $5000 was carried on the stock and $2000 on the store. The new winter goods had just been placed on the shelves and were all burned. The loss of the company's records which were destroyed with the office equipment is one of the keenest felt by Manager E. A. Brayman and it is not known at this date in what condition the contents of the safe may be.

The origin of the fire is unknown as the entire building was ablaze when it was discovered. The only possible cause known is the theory advanced by Marshall Brayman that a large stick of wood standing upright in the big stove in the middle of the store struck the door which opened, scattering the sparks on the floor. Fire soon burned this through and spread over the building.

The company will not rebuild in view of the fact that they are gradually disposing of their interests in Custer preparatory to the removal of the Brayman family with the manufacturing and mercantile business to Phillips, Me. Saturday workmen started loading the last car of pin machinery for shipping to Maine, where the other machinery and mill building are already set up. Several deals were being considered by the company for the sales by the local mercantile branch of the business and Mr. Brayman had about closed negotiations with one party this week. It is possible that the transactions for the sale of the ground may be made anyway and the party will erect a new store.

PARTRIDGES WAKE UP.

MAINE SPORTSMAN REVERSES USUAL HUNTERS' PLAN.

"Beats the Brush" to Wake up Lazy Sleeping Partridges after November Snows Strike Flagstaff and Biddies Take Notice and Give Themselves Away.

(Special to Maine Woods and Maine Sportsman.)

Farmington, Me., Oct. 5, 1909.

Dr. E. C. Merrill of Farmington, a sportsman who never fails to take a hunting trip at least once each season, plans to go to Flagstaff this season as usual. Dr. Merrill and a party of friends are very fond of that vicinity and the surroundings at Cliff Wing's camps.

This fall Mr. Wing is building an additional camp to be occupied by the Merrill party that will be large enough and comfortable enough to take care of ladies as well as the "all men" parties.

Last year Dr. Merrill and party were at the Wing camps in November after the snow came and they found plenty of deer but conditions were unfavorable for partridges, so they did not see many.

Dr. Merrill decided that as there was snow on the ground and the birds had no inducements to come to earth for "budding" they doubtless slept in the big birch trees during the middle of the day. So he inaugurated an entirely new plan, which was to go through the birch growth making as much noise as possible with the intention of awakening the sleeping birds. The first birch tree that he came to furnished one bird. That was encouraging, so he kept on. The result was very satisfactory and all of the partridges that were shot were hunted by this method of making as much noise as possible, rather than by going through the woods quietly.

Freeman Centre Oct. 11, 1909.

One day last week, Cora, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Blackwell, aged five years, in about two hours picked up nine bushels of potatoes, besides helping her father pull up a few potato tops. We think it would be hard to beat this by one of her age.

It is real exciting digging potatoes this year. Mr. C. N. Blackwell found in one hill three potatoes, one medium-sized, one weighing one pound, 10 oz., and the other weighing one pound, 9 oz. In another hill he found three medium sized potatoes connected, weighing one pound, one oz, length 11 inches.

July weather in October.

Canning season closes in Strong this week. The output is much less than usual, owing to early frosts. The labelling will commence soon.

There is quite a demand for apples at the apple canning factories. Some farmers are hauling to Farmington and some to East New Portland.

The potato crop with some is very good, while others find theirs like the old lady's apple crop, "monstrous few and those few mighty little."

Adelbert Sedgely at Maple Grove Corner has raised the banner potato as far as we have learned. It measures around the longest way 17 1/2 inches by 11 inches and weighs 2 1/2 lbs. Next!

Mrs. J. P. Savage is suffering from a severe gathering on her right thumb caused by a slight wound.

Sunday week the large chimney in the house at Maple Grove Farm burned out, and when all danger was supposed to be over, an ominous roaring sound showed that the wood work about the chimney was on fire. The mantelpiece was quickly removed and a few pails of water soon extinguished the blaze. The damage was slight but had it occurred in the night or in the absence of Mr. Savage, the consequences would have been disastrous. Mr. and Mrs. Urban Savage drove into the yard just in season to give aid.

Can one look over the mountains and hilltops and not say what a grand sight? Still it has a tinge of sadness, as we think another year is drawing to a close and it tells us there is one more year less for us in the battle of life.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Huff visited at Ora Kilkenny's on Freeman ridge last Sunday. In riding along, it was the grandest sight to look over the hilltops that our eyes ever rested upon, God's own flower garden. Truly no hand can paint so grand a picture.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so? The general health of woman is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

WILD ANIMALS IN THE ROAD.

MAINE CENTRAL R. R. ATTORNEY
AUTOING IN GAME DISTRICT.

Deer Shot at While Running Twenty Miles an Hour—Two Partridges Secured on the Trip—Chipmunks and Rabbits Add to Pleasure.

Hon. Seth M. Carter of Lewiston, attorney for the Maine Central railroad company, came to Phillips one day last week, accompanied by his son, Charles Carter, Esq., who is associated with Mr. Carter in the law business. Mr. Carter wanted to visit an attractive place where he could live in log cabins with comfort and get good hunting and he wanted said resort easily reached by automobile.

He decided to go to John B. Carville's Spring Lake Camps, near Flagstaff, so he drove to the Rogers farm, three miles from the camps, by automobile and was there met by the camp buckboard.

From Phillips H. H. and D. F. Field and Emery S. Bubler accompanied Mr. Carter and his son to the Rogers farm was by a decidedly round-about route, including Strong, New Vineyard, New Portland, Lexington, Kingfield, Carrabasset, Stratton, Greene's Farm, Eustis and Flagstaff.

It isn't likely that Mr. Carter tramp ed more than ten or fifteen miles a day hunting. He isn't awfully fond of carrying a gun. But his son, Charles likes to hunt. Charles is the man referred to last week who shot a deer and brought him in in an hour from camp after a friend had been hunting all the forenoon without success.

Mr. Seth Carter is not really long on carrying a gun, as we admitted for him above, but he is really quite long in other ways. When he stands up for instance, he's six feet two or more. His features, unlike Stearns's character, were made to go together.

A new legislative reporter once approached Mr. Carter with a firm determination to find out all he knew about prospective legislation. But he was quietly referred to the "other fellow," and that ended it.

P. S. In our eagerness to say a lot of things about Mr. Carter that some of our readers hadn't heard farm, using H. H. Field's big Winton car for the trip. The day was a dandy, the roads fairly good and the big Winton was in its usual good trim for getting over the roads at a rapid gait and doing it so that you wouldn't notice it.

Mr. Carter is a very busy man, as everybody in Maine knows, but they do not all know he has been so busy he has hardly ever ridden far enough in an automobile so that it really amounted to anything as an outing. In fact, he tries to lengthen out the days in the interest of business instead of shortening them in an auto.

But he liked this trip.

The air tasted good to him. He liked to forget all about the New Haven merger, Massachusetts holding company and other things that we won't mention (for we don't know what they were) and watch a rabbit run across the road in front of the machine "as though the devil was after it." Watching the rabbit was a mighty good way to forget, and it was fun for all but the rabbit.

It is said to have occurred to Mr. Carter that that rabbit was making an almighty lot of fuss over nothing.

Mr. Carter had hardly ever seen a chipmunk until he took this ride. He hasn't had time. But he forgot his business again when one of these little striped fellows stood up on a stone wall beside the road and chattered and made faces at him. That looked like an almighty lot of trouble over a very small nut, too. And it was, but while Brother C. was thinking about the chipmunk his railroad brain cell got a good long rest, possibly a minute.

The automobile ride to the Rogersville, low, winding stream to a rag-before, we forgot to mention the fact that on the automobile trip referred to above, members of the party shot at one deer at close range while the automobile was running at 20 miles an hour and missed. Another shot at a second deer with the machine standing still and brought blood, but unfortunately the deer was not secured. Also two partridges were shot along the route.

SPOTTED TROUT BY HUNDREDS.

Weir Added on Cupsuptic River Produces Good Results.

(Special to Maine Woods and Maine Sportsman.)

Oquossoc, Me., Oct. 9, 1909.

Extra effort is being made this fall to secure a particularly large number of trout eggs for the state fish hatchery at Oquossoc. There are weirs this year on Kennebago river, Rangeley stream, Dodge Pond stream and Cupsuptic river. The work on Cupsuptic river is an important addition to the work of egg taking at the Rangeley Lakes. Cupsuptic river is a purely trout river. No landlocked salmon have ever been planted there. Consequently none go up that river to spawn. A few days ago a couple of hundred beautiful spawning trout had been caught in the Cupsuptic weir. They ranged from one to four pounds in weight, just the right size to furnish handsome, healthy, amber colored eggs—just right for the most successful hatching of healthy baby trout. The heavy rains of a couple of weeks ago raised the river in this vicinity suddenly. Four inches of rain fell and in twenty four hours Cupsuptic river changed from a doing torrent and the water ran two ing torrent and the water ran two feet over the fish weir for a day or two. But this did not happen until after a good number of trout had been secured, and it went down before the run of fish had ended. At last accounts the various weirs had more than 500 trout, waiting until they should be ready to strip. This is more than twice the number of fish that were taken last year. Last year's supply of eggs and the supply of the year before were supplemented by the purchase of a couple of hundred thousands of eggs from private hatcheries in Massachusetts. If the 500 trout now on hand prove to be about two thirds females as usual, Oquossoc hatchery should have more eggs this fall than ever before in its history.

WILD LAND FIRES.

the only way a non-resident could take any game birds out of the state was to purchase a tag at a cost of 50 cents, which would permit him to ship one pair of game birds to his home.

When the license law was enacted it was decided to give the holder of the license the privilege of transporting 10 ducks, 10 partridges and 10 woodcock by simply having them tagged with the proper tags detached from his hunting license without his paying 50 cents per pair for transporting them.

In view of the above laws relating to transportation of game birds, one may, in addition to the 10 birds which he can take (or send without accompanying them) out of the state on each of the three tags of his hunting license, send to his home, by paying 50 cents for a tag, as many pairs of birds as he lawfully kills, provided, of course, he does not ship more than 15 at one time.

A New Jersey man, who stopped at the Rangeleys last summer at the Mountain View House, as he has for many years, inquires if South Bog is closed to fishing.

Chapter 407, private and special laws of 1903, reads as follows: "Unlawful to fish in South Bog stream from its mouth up to the first quick water from July 1 to May 1; fly fishing only in South Bog stream and pool."

There is a general law that closes all tributaries to Rangeley lake to fishing at all times and the above repeals only the part of that general law that refers to South Bog pool and the stream up to the first quick water. That is opened to fly fishing only from May 1 to July 1.
